Mamade Kadreebux • Man of the Arts

Mamade Kadreebux is a world traveler and self-styled painter, poet, photographer, raconteur, and author of eight books of profound literary and poetic qualities written between 2003 and 2016:

- Life in the Shadows
- Journey to Ancient Arabia
- The Book of Journeys
- Destiny
- Following the Muse
- Before the Cell Phone
- The Prisons of Solitude (Les Verrous de la Solitude)
- Forthcoming: The School of Experience (L'Ecole d'Experience)

Kadreebux is an important community leader and spiritual pioneer rooted in the Muslim faith who, with his wife Judy Olson, is host-founder-exemplar of a movement establishing Friday Nights Free™ around the world. These non-alcoholic weekly gatherings allow people of any faith, including agnostics and atheists, an opportunity to enjoy good food, friendship, poetry, music; intellectual, literary, political, and scientific discussion together.

Kadreebux's step-daughter, Dr. Dawn Bravo, is a distinguished researcher at Stanford University specializing in cutting-edge cancer and stem cell research.

Mamade Kadreebux is a Berkeley neighbor, director, and friend of the STAR ALLIANCE • FOUNDATION FOR ALL. Much of his art may be enjoyed and purchased at mamadekadreebux.com.
